Sermon Summary:

Using the true story of deep-sea diver Chris Lemons, the message explored the importance of staying connected to our spiritual lifeline, Jesus. Just as a diver depends on an umbilical line for oxygen, heat, light, and a way home, we depend completely on Christ for life, grace, salvation, and hope.

A key challenge was the reality that time is not guaranteed. We often assume there will always be another opportunity to invite, encourage, pray for, or share our faith with someone. Yet Scripture reminds us how brief life can be, and challenges us not to delay what God may be asking us to do today.

The story also highlighted God's persistence. Even when the crew appeared to have lost hope, the rescue mission continued. In the same way, God does not give up on people, and neither should we. We are invited to keep praying, keep believing, and keep making ourselves available to God as He pursues those who are far from Him.

Ultimately, the message pointed us back to the heart of Jesus, the Good Shepherd who goes after the one. The question left with us was simple but powerful: Who is your one?

Discussion Questions:

1. Who's Your One?
   The message challenged us to consider someone in our lives who is disconnected from God.
   Who has God placed on your heart, and what do you think makes it difficult to consistently pray for or engage with that person?

2. Don't Give Up
   The crew thought the rescue mission was over, but the story wasn't finished yet. Similarly, God has not given up on the people we care about. Have you ever been tempted to give up on someone spiritually? What does this message teach us about God's patience and persistence?

3. Your Next Step
   The sermon reminded us not to wait until we feel ready, comfortable, or have all the answers before responding to God's prompting.
   What might be one practical next step you could take this week toward someone God has placed on your heart?

Prayer Pointers | Pray together for:

- A greater burden for people who are far from God.
- Courage to share our faith and initiate meaningful conversations.
- Wisdom to recognise opportunities God places in front of us.
- Friends, family members, neighbours, and colleagues who need Jesus.
- Those who may feel discouraged or have lost hope for someone they care about.
- A church that faithfully joins Jesus in seeking and saving the lost.

Weekly Application:

Pray for them daily and ask God for:

- An opportunity to connect.
- A meaningful spiritual conversation.
- Courage to take a simple step of obedience.

Ask yourself: If God hasn't given up on them, why should I?

Look for one practical way to encourage, invite, serve, or engage that person this week.

Could our Christmas services be an opportunity to invite them to church? Be intentional about building the connection and when the opportunity arises extend the invitation.

Leader Note: Keep the focus on God's heart rather than guilt or performance. The goal is not for people to feel pressured to "fix" someone's spiritual journey, but to respond faithfully to God's prompting. Encourage the group to trust that God is already at work in the lives of the people they care about and that He invites us to participate in what He is doing.
